Executive Women International Tennessee Board Forum

Executive Women International (EWI) Knoxville Chapter President, Sandy Richards with Lattimore, Black, Morgan & Cain, and Philanthropy Chair, Terrye Whitaker with National College, recently attended the EWI Tennessee Board Forum in Nashville.

The forum brought together chapter leaders from across Tennessee for a weekend of sharing ideas and brainstorming on topics such as recruiting and retaining members, website and social media marketing, and building personal and professional development, among others. The forum focused attention on EWI's literacy and educational advancement programs that support EWI's core purpose of Careers, Connections, and Community.

“The Tennessee chapters realize that each of us can become stronger as we share ideas and rely on each other for support. The forum will become an annual event for the leaders and board members of the Tennessee chapters,” said Sandy Richards.
